

I want to strongly express that I do not want the FCC to implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law. I cannot imagine going back to the old ways of having to receive call after call from Solicitors! I have found the law to be one of the most refreshing laws passed, relating to the protection of my privacy. I used to receive as many as two calls per day from various solicitors. Since my family's phone number was "blocked" from these solicitors, I think I have only received one call! It would be a horrible thing to go back to those old ways and those very annoying calls again!

Sincerely,

Michael K. Stevens
